HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING RAGES IN RUSSIA

As U.S. Aircraft Carrier Yorktown Lost in Battle of Midway

These dramatic pictures show the attack upon and the sinking of the United States aircraft carrier Yorktown, which was lost off Midway, during the heavy fighting there June 7. The Navy withheld announcement of the Yorktown's loss until now in belief the enemy did not know he had actually sunk the ship. At left the Yorktown may be seen as she withstood a heavy air attack by bombers and torpedo planes on June 4. Center photo shows the carrier listing after being torpedoed by an enemy submarine on June 7. At right may be seen some of the ship's crew and flight personnel walking with difficulty on the sloping flight deck of the doomed carrier shortly before she sank.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE
Tuesday evening while Dane Feagans, employee of the Blackmer and Tanquary Drug Store, was busy behind the counter, a white-haired man stepped in and asked Dane where he could obtain a certain newspaper.
Dane directed him to a downtown news stand, and after he had finished giving directions, the man said:
"I am deaf, and the only way I can tell what you are saying is by lip reading—you were chewing gum, and I did not understand a word you said."
Somewhat embarrassed, but seeing the funny side of the matter, Dane ceased chewing gum, and again gave directions—which were understood, and the man hurried out to obtain the paper.
Who'd like to have a baby squirrel to raise and possibly make a nice pet? It would be a lot of fun under the right conditions for some child or adult. The story... has to do with a possible tragedy in the animal world... or maybe just plain abandonment by the mother squirrel. Anyway, after hearing small cries for a couple of days coming from the big oak tree on Circle Avenue across from the field house of Gardner Park... Mrs. Harold Craig investigated and found a tiny baby squirrel on the tree trunk, whimpering.
A friendly call to the youngster and down the tree he came to be carefully picked up and carried inside, a warm dinner, fed via a medicine dropper. He was starved, too, and reached up both front paws to grasp the glass tube. Then he went to sleep with a full tummy.
Mrs. Craig has the little fellow and wants to find a home for him, not because she doesn't like baby squirrels... but there's a dog in the household and complications are too likely to set in when the pup finds a rival has come in to get the attention she enjoys from the family.
Life is like that, sometimes!

OHIO REPUBLICANS FOR INFLATION CURB

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(P)—Ohio Republicans in the house apparently will support any anti-inflation program evolved by congressional leaders trying to pass price control legislation by October 1, as urged by President Roosevelt.
Unlike Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), the house Republicans refrained from outspoken criticism of the president for saying he would take matters into his own hands unless Congress acted.
The senator declared that the president's attitude was out of line with representative government and amounted to a threat of dictatorship.
Democratic representatives from Ohio urged quick congressional action.

SPY IS HUNTED ON EAST COAST; RAFT IS FOUND

Prowler Escapes Bullets as He Runs Along Beach Near Where Saboteurs Landed
NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(P)—The Eastern Defense command announced today that a small raft had been found along the Atlantic coast of Long Island last night and that a shot was fired in an unsuccessful attempt to halt a prowler.
An Army beach patrol, together with police and coast guard, later searched the vicinity but "discovered nothing unusual."
The announcement said the incident occurred at about 10 P. M. Eastern War Time.
The text of the announcement follows:
"Last night, Sept. 16, at about 10 P. M., Eastern War Time, local coast guard patrol on a Long Island beach near the Hamptons found a small raft and reported that a prowler was seen running along the beach in that vicinity.
"A shot was fired in an unsuccessful attempt to halt the prowler. An Army beach patrol arrived at the scene within a few minutes. Soldiers, police and coast guard searched the vicinity but discovered nothing unusual."
The "Hamptons" referred to in the announcement are a group of villages on the south shore of Long Island about three-quarters of the distance from New York to the island's tip at Montauk Point.
The location is within 25 miles of the point at Amagansett Beach where four Nazi saboteurs landed in June. They subsequently were tried with four others, who landed on a Florida beach, by a military commission in Washington. Six of the eight were executed.
State and village police throughout eastern Long Island were busy all morning stopping motorists and requesting identifications from them and their passengers.
Likewise, at least two Long Island railroad trains were boarded by authorities.

Yanks Stop Jap Drive On Solomons; Ships Sunk

(By the Associated Press)
American warplanes striking at Japanese forces in the Western Aleutians and in the South Seas were credited today with sinking two enemy cruisers, damaging or destroying at least eight other ships and inflicting 500 troop casualties, while U. S. Marines continued to hunt down enemy snipers in the Solomon Islands.
On the New Guinea front, developments took an ominous turn as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters acknowledged that Japanese troops had advanced eight miles in the drive toward Port Moresby.
A United Nations communiqué said the main bodies of the Allied and Japanese forces in New Guinea now were locked in battle only 32 miles from Port Moresby, with the Japanese exerting heavy pressure.
Attacking at both ends of the far-flung Pacific battle theater, American fliers scored bomb and torpedo hits on two enemy cruisers off Choiseul Island 200 miles north of Guadalcanal in the Solomons, and pounded Japanese shipping and troops in the Aleutian Islands, the Navy announced.
Pacific fleet headquarters said U. S. Army planes attacked Japan's chief base in the Aleutians at Kiska Harbor on Tuesday, sinking two enemy mine sweepers and damaging three submarines, three big cargo ships and "several" smaller craft.
In addition, the raiders killed or wounded an estimated 500 Japanese troops, shot down six planes and set fire to warehouses and supply dumps.
In the Solomon Islands, American Marines were reported to have beat down a third Japanese attempt to regain the prize Guadalcanal Air Base.
British columns were believed continuing their week-old advance upon Tananarive, capital of French Madagascar Island in the Indian Ocean pending an agreement on armistice terms.
No developments were reported in connection with a statement attributed yesterday to Gen. Shunroku Hata, Japan's commander in chief in China, declaring that "East Asia is about to take an important step in cooperation with the European war."
However, Japan named Masayuki Tani, first secretary of the Japanese Embassy in Washington in 1927, as her new foreign minister.
To live with him and become a prostitute in return for his payment of a $500 hospital bill three years ago. Then, she continued, she worked as a "call girl" for him in Cleveland; at a house operated by "Myrtle Crosby" in Sandusky; at an Akron place; at a house operated by Vera Sili, alias Vera Miller, in Lorain; at Sadie Cook's place in Canton; at a house in Zanesville, and finally as a "call girl" in New York City for "Polly Adler," who operated from "a penthouse—a very nice place."
In New York, the witness declared after taking the stand late yesterday, she worked with Joan Johnson, wife of Jack Johnson, 38, Amsterdam, N. Y., another of those indicted. Although she gave Morei her earnings, Miss Foley declared, he always said it wasn't enough. When she came back to Cleveland from New York for a visit last Easter, "he

Prostitute's Real Name Concealed By Judge as She Bares Life of Vice

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—(P)—An attempt by Defense Attorney Ralph Levenson to draw forth the real name of "Joyce Foley," government witness in the white slave trial of four men and a woman, was frustrated today by Judge Emerich B. Freed.
The federal jurist has permitted the 21-year-old Cleveland woman to hide behind her "professional name," because she deserted her previous career as a prostitute.
Judge Freed reprimanded Levenson, reminding him it had been decided before the trial that the girl would not have to reveal her real name. "And if I recall, defense counsel agreed to that," Judge Freed remarked.
The attractive Miss Foley testified that Louis Peter Morei, one of the defendants, frequently brandished a knife "and threatened if I left him that he'd scar me up, so no other man ever would want me."
The former prostitute also declared that the 51-year-old Cleveland—a defendant in what prosecutors declare was a five-state ring—constantly complained she wasn't making him enough money.
Miss Foley said she met Morei six years ago while in junior high school; that he induced her

The court stipulated that he pick up the lollipops on his way to jail from his shipyard job.

Farm Labor Shortage Causes Concern in Ohio

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—(P)—Part of Ohio's expanded wartime food crops may go to waste for lack of farm labor to harvest them.
This was indicated today in a survey of large-producing northern counties, where farmers appealing to the U. S. Employment Service centers for help are told none is to be had.
Appeals have been made from pulpits and to civilian defense organizations in the Sandusky area, and a number of club women answered to such work have answered the pleas to pick apples and grapes, says Marcus J. Kintz, employment service manager there.
Because of the labor shortage, farm experts say, acres of hay went uncut and as a result greater quantities of grain will be required for dairy feeding next winter.

Vast Hordes of Reserves Hurlled into Bloody Slaughter by Hitler
PLANES SWARM OVERHEAD
Meanwhile, Allies Send Vast Air Armada To Blast German Industry

By ROGER D. GREENE
(By The Associated Press)
Russian headquarters acknowledged for the first time today that the German siege armies had broken into the northwest outskirts of Stalingrad and reported that bloody house-to-house fighting was in progress.
While there was still no intimation that the city was falling, the Soviet radio conceded that the Germans were "still pressing forward... sustaining enormous losses."

Vast hordes of German reserves were reported moving up to replace the fallen, some arriving in transport planes landing immediately outside the city.
Dispatches to Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, indicated that Nazi Marshal Fedor von Bock had sent perhaps 300,000 to 450,000 troops, aided by tanks and swarms of dive bombers, crashing through the north-west gates of the Volga metropolis.
Adolf Hitler's field headquarters, tersely summarizing what may be the greatest military assault in history, declared:
"The battle for the fortified city of Stalingrad is progressing without interruption."
This was the Nazi command's only comment on the struggle, but dispatches reaching Switzerland quoted the German propaganda ministry as saying Hitler would issue a special announcement today. This seemed to indicate that the Fuehrer expected the swift collapse of Stalingrad.
At mid-day, after bitter fighting throughout the night, the Russian high command stressed successful defensive actions and declared that at least some of the German assault forces had been repulsed or wiped out.
But others held their gains, seizing houses and firing from attics and cellars. Overhead, clouds of Nazi Stukas and high-level bombers rained death and destruction on the already ravaged city.

NAZIS KILL ALL MEN IN 4 SLAV VILLAGES

Women and Children Sent To Concentration Camp
LONDON, Sept. 17.—(P)—A Reuters dispatch from Istanbul today quoted Belgrade reports that the Germans had shot all male inhabitants of four Yugoslav villages and sent the women and children to concentration camps in reprisal for the blowing up of a German military train.
The train, carrying troops and war supplies, was blown up by Serbian irregulars on Sept. 10, it was stated, and many young officers on their way to reinforce Marshal Rommel's Africa corps were killed.
As Stalingrad's peril increased, Britain delivered another city-smashing attack on the industrial heart of Germany before dawn today, with an armada of perhaps 800 RAF bombers attacking Ruhr valley foundries.
"A very strong force" left great fires raging in the valley, the British Air Ministry said, in the tenth night assault on the Reich this month.
Thirty-nine RA bombers were acknowledged missing.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS MEET FOR LAST TIME

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—(P)—A half hundred Civil War veterans convened today for what probably will be the last formal National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.
As the fighting men of '61 met to elect a national commander, members of various affiliated organizations expressed belief that no future G. A. R. National Encampments would be held.
The only business remaining at the 76th annual encampment was the election of a commander, and John S. Dummer, 93 year old Oakland, Calif., veteran, was unopposed for the post now held by George A. Gay, Nashua, N. H.

WICKARD BACKS STABILIZATION OF FARM PRICES

'Inflation and Deflation' Of Last World War Is Recalled

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has given his support to plans for stabilizing farm prices at levels averaging parity, declaring that he recalled too vividly how, as a farmer, he went through "inflation and deflation" in the last war.

Wickard appeared before the Senate Banking Committee, which a little earlier had heard Price Administrator Leon Henderson call for stabilization now of farm prices, wages and salaries to head off what he called an inflation disaster "as deadly as a bomb and as treacherous as the Japanese."

They testified in the committee's study of a resolution which would direct President Roosevelt to stabilize wages, salaries and prices at the general level of last August 15.

Recalling the World War upsurge of prices and the crashing descent which followed for farmers, Wickard said:

"I never want to go through either again, and I know the overwhelming majority of the farmers feel as I do."

Wickard said estimates for 1942 indicated that cash farm income, including government payments exceeded high levels reached in 1919.

He said net farm income on the amount available to farmers for use in family living and for savings was estimated at $10,500,000,000 or almost $1,000,000,000 greater than the amount available in 1919.

"Stated in terms of parity, farm income per capita in 1942 will be about 133 percent of the parity income level and defined in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, although per capita farm income still is well below per capita non-farm income," Wickard told the committee.

(Parity is a farm price designed to give the farmer a purchasing power equal in terms of non-farm products equal to that in a base period, usually 1909-14).

LURED BY CARNIVAL, BOY LEAVES HOME

Found at New Holland and Sent Back

Junior Harness, of St. Martins, Brown County, lured by the attractions of carnival life, left his home several days ago and followed a carnival company to New Holland, where he was located late Tuesday and returned to his parents, who were frantic over his disappearance.

Junior was only 14, and the fact that he wore a checkered shirt aided in locating him and returning him to his parents.

Word was received from the parents by Sheriff W. H. Icenhower, who got in touch with a man he knew was connected with the carnival.

"I'll take a look for the boy, and as I am coming over to your city I will bring him along," he told Sheriff Icenhower.

An hour later the boy was brought to the office of the sheriff, parents notified, and they came after him.

RAF BOMBARDIER BEATEN, ROBBED IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Patrick Murphy, 26-year-old bombardier with the Royal Air Force, was beaten and robbed in the heart of New York City early today and remarked ruefully:

"For two years I flew over Germany and occupied France where there was plenty of excitement, but I have to be walking down Fifth Avenue to get my brains knocked out."

Murphy was attacked, he told police, by four Negroes who robbed him of $1.18 and his identification tag.

Three women, Nellie Bly, Ann Rutledge and Pocahontas, have had railroad trains named after them.

SAVE FATS AND GREASES
One of the simplest war aids asked by Uncle Sam—one of which does not require even the slightest self-sacrifice—is the saving of fats and greases.

The response thus far has been good but not good enough. Perhaps that is because saving waste grease is so very simple that its importance has not been realized.

To make up a shortage caused by Japanese aggression, and then to supply the added needs brought by war, American housewives must save and take to their meat markets—for forwarding to Uncle Sam—half a billion pounds of waste fats this year.

That is only a fourth of what has been wasted in the past. But since the year was half gone before the campaign began, it is about half of what could have been saved if every housewife cooperated to the limit. Some will shirk. Therefore the rest must contribute enough more to make up for the laggards.

Grease and fats produce glycerine, and this is made into nitroglycerine and other explosives. Glycerine is needed also as a float for ships' compasses and in the mechanisms which throw depth charges overboard at Axis submarines.

A one-pound coffee can will hold two pounds of grease. That is enough to make the explosive needed for five anti-tank shells.

In the past we got almost a billion pounds a year from Far Eastern sources cut off by the Japs—coconut oil and copra from the Philippines, palm oil from the Dutch East Indies and Malaya, tung oil from China, perilla oil from Manchuria and Japan.

We can replace part of this loss, and get something toward the billion additional pounds required by war, from Latin American sources, if we can spare cargo space in ships. The more we get from home, the more shipping we can use directly against the Axis.

So out of American frying pans and broilers—from the drippings of steaks and chops, beef and pork and lamb roasts, chickens and turkeys and ducks and geese—must come fat for glycerine for explosives for shells and bombs and depth charges to win this war.

Pour off the drippings through a strainer into a tin can. When the lard or vegetable fat gets too old to fry doughnuts or potatoes or fastnachts, dump it into the can.

Around the first of the week, when the butcher isn't too busy, take him anything you have from a pound up. He will

Dollar Pitching Returns
DALLAS, Tex.—If the scarcity of horse shoes becomes more acute, and there aren't enough left to pitch, Vic Kormeier says an ancient pastime may regain popularity. It's dollar pitching. A fellow digs a little hole in the ground, stands back a few yards and pitches for the hole. The pitcher coming closest to the targets wins the dollars.

Honeymooners Used To Watch for Fires
MISSOULA, Mont.—The forest service says its first experiment in employing married couples—including honeymooners—as fire lookouts has been a success.

Heretofore a fire lookout's job, watching for forest fires from the tops of giant watch towers built in the most isolated and highest parts of national forests, has been considered one of the world's loneliest posts. Usually they were filled by students in forestry courses.

Recently eight married couples served in the Coeur d'Alene forests. Forest service officials said they demonstrated two pairs of eyes are better than one in watching for fires.

HARDBOILED CURE

Robert E. Harvey, Denver's liaison agent with the growing Colorado military establishment, recently gave a little demonstration of one way to handle a slowdown.

Some 49 truckdrivers employed on a new runway at Lowry Field, the Air Force's important technical school, became disgruntled and started driving at from two to five miles an hour. (There wasn't a strike.)

Mr. Harvey demanded that all automobile tires issued to the slowdowners be recalled on the ground that they had been obtained for war production purposes only, and that the men's names be removed from all lists for future war jobs. The slowdown ended—fast.

"Thanks, Joe. I'd forgotten I lent you this buck. That was on May 9, 1941, wasn't it?"

Periods in Life When Eyes Need Special Care

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

YESTERDAY we discussed the care of the eyes of the child of school age. For every period of life there are eye conditions that fit into that time. Even before birth certain eye conditions can be prevented by treatment, as pointed out by Dr. Lawrence T. Post, of St. Louis. Others he thinks should be prevented by restricting marriages.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

One of these is high myopia, or near-sightedness, an hereditary defect due to the shape of the eyeball. At least the marriage of two people of extreme myopia should be prevented. But when we remember that failure to do this is responsible for the high incidence of this defect among the Germans today and that the Germans are supposed to be the most scientific people on earth such a cause seems quite hopeless.

Preventive Measures

Many eye diseases have become practically non-existent on account of the enforcement of preventive measures and public health education. Thus to carry the age period to just after birth, medical science has practically eliminated "ophthalmia neonatorum," the blindness of the newborn, in civilized countries. Where, as not so long ago there were blind asylums crowded with these victims, now the instillation of a weak solution of silver nitrate into the eyes of the child immediately after birth, to kill germs that might have got in during the passage down the birth canal, prevents this condition 100 per cent.

In the young adult period of life also prevention of industrial accidents to the eyes has been a great sight saver—how great we hardly can guess. Poor illumination too has been shown to be responsible for much eye fatigue and this has been largely corrected.

Presbyopia

Coming to middle age there are very few people who escape a visit to the eye specialist, for "presbyopia," the blurred vision that results from a hardening and lack of elasticity of the crystalline lens. Perhaps a parent is depressed by this event. "This is the beginning of old age," he says. He jokes about it, but he isn't very happy.

Dr. Post thinks people at about the age of 40 should be prepared for the spectacle epoch, to soften the jar when it comes. There are plenty of good things about the eyes after 50 and this epochal event is relatively unimportant.

The modern man or woman should think also about the blessings that modern optics has given them. Not so long ago the science of spectacle-making was still in its journeyman stage and people from 50 on put up with glasses that gave them any old kind of vision.

Bifocal Spectacles

Benjamin Franklin among his other practical blessings to humanity invented bifocal spectacles and that was not so long ago.

Samuel Pepys closed his diary because he thought he was going blind, when it was only that he was nearing the age of 40; but in his day spectacles were few and far between, and eye-glass fitting had never been considered by scientific men.

To summarize—for the health of the eyes everyone needs a doctor's attention at the time of his birth, and again between the ages of six and 10 when the demands of school bring out small ocular defects, and then not again as a routine measure unless some bad luck comes along until the age of 40.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D. S.: Would it be harmful for an expectant mother to have her teeth extracted?

Answer: The expectant mother should have her teeth examined regularly. Perhaps it may be necessary to extract one or two. I can't tell from your question whether you mean all the teeth extracted. I do not believe any dentist would advise that.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

PAMELA and Barbara came out of the Forty-ninth street entrance of one of the big Fifth avenue stores and looked at each other, making those little faces girls make to each other when they're spent.

Barbara said, "I'd like to sit on the Cathedral steps and take my shoes off. You've got a dirty face, Pam."

Pam said, "No dirtier than yours, Taxi!"

"Where now?" Barbara said, letting out an exhausted breath.

Pamela told the driver to take them to the Plaza hotel.

"We're not meeting your father until six-thirty. Is there a place we can sit for an hour?"

"There's a place where we can dunk ourselves, which is more to the point. I've reserved a room."

Barbara blinked. She still was feeling a little dizzy from the whirlwind revelation of Pamela's princely shopping. She said, "Darling, we're going back tonight. What do we want a room for?"

"To make new women of us. Brand new, rested, clean gals, full of vim and vigor for a large evening. In other words, a bath. Isn't it worth $10?"

Half an hour later, letting the exquisite comfort of perfumed, steaming water soak through her skin into her very soul, Barbara reflected on the luxurious delights a fat purse makes possible. Not that she could ever bring herself to spend $10 for this Roman pleasure, but it was worth it.

It took a lordly point of view to spend money as Pamela did. Barbara thought of the afternoon's shopping with her young friend and found she still thought it a breath-taking experience.

It had begun, just after lunch, in the sports department, where Pamela, with never a glance at the price tags, bought sweaters and skirts and funny little hats and woolen socks that cost as much as Barbara paid for six pairs of stockings. These purchases had been but a drop in the bucket, she soon realized when Pamela began buying frocks. She'd bought seven pairs of shoes, as many hats, and still didn't stop there. There was costume jewelry—one bracelet for $57 and not a jewel in its plain band of gold—and bath salts at $10 a jar.

The Sycamore in Barbara did not sigh over the fragrance of the bath salts. She shut her eyes and breathed the scent of them. But in a moment her pleasure dissolved before the disturbing thought that Pamela would find life very different as Tony's wife from what it was now.

When she hadn't been able to decide whether to take the woody green or the cinnamon tweed suit, Pamela said, "Why don't you take both, Barb?"

No, Pamela had no idea what it was like to have to economize, to live within a budget.

The trend of this thought led to one that she had been thinking of a lot lately. It was that there was something the matter with Tony. He was not the old sometimes care-free Tony at all. Barbara was quite sure she knew now why he was not.

The evidences of Pamela's wealth, everywhere apparent, during those times the four of them had been together at Stormwood, must have frightened Tony away from his intention to tell Pamela of his feeling for her.

Barbara wished that she were the kind of a girl who could ask Pamela how she felt about Tony. But that was sheer stupidity on her part; it was obvious how Pam felt about him. Why was Tony such a blind boy that he couldn't see it?

Poor little Pam, eating her heart out for him and he—

Pam said, "If you don't hurry up I'll come in and drown you."

The telephone rang in the bedroom and after a minute Pam came back again, saying through the door, "The old gent just called from downstairs. He sounds low. Hurry up! Dress and go down and keep him company while I make myself ravishing."

Barbara was glowing, all traces of fatigue washed away in the refreshing bath.

She dressed carefully in the woody green tweed suit she had finally decided upon. It had a short, pleated skirt and a smart little jacket topped with a big collar of badger fur. Pam had selected the wicked sort of Robin Hood cap of green felt with an extraordinarily impertinent pheasant feather. It was 12 inches long and as part as a wink when the hat was pulled down over her right eye. She pulled it well down and picked up her new brown suede gauntlet gloves and bag.

She went to the door, came back for a last glimpse of herself, and sprayed a little of Pam's new perfume back of her ears.

Tom Kilcran was waiting in the foyer near the elevator when she stepped out.

She thought he looked tired and older than usual, and was cheered at the thought that he was going to Maine for a fortnight's holiday.

He said, "This is great luck, Barbara, for me to have two pretty girls to cheer me up."

"What cheering up do you need?" she asked gayly.

"Don't you feel low when your plans are changed?"

"They aren't very often. What's happened to yours? You're leaving at midnight for Maine, aren't you?"

He said, "No." His voice did not invite comment.

She said, "Pam is getting dressed in some of her new finery."

He was asking her if Pamela had run him into bankruptcy when that young lady appeared in a new suit that would have done something like that to Tony's income.

Pam said, "Cocktail lounge at the Flamingo club first, Tom. Dinner at Theodore's, and then a revue. Or can you think of something better?"

"Read and milk for you and a Mickey Mouse is what girls your age should have, but I'll make an exception for you tonight. Where's the Flamingo?"

There was forced note of gaiety in his voice, Barbara thought.

The Flamingo was gay and it was a new experience for Barbara. Her champagne cocktail gave her wrists and ankles a singing feeling and the colored balloons grouped against the black walls of the club, the subdued lights, the tinkling music and laughter made her feel very gay.

Tom had ordered a second cocktail when Pamela said, "Did you ring up Mother and tell her to have your train met?"

He said he had.

Barbara said, "I thought you said you weren't going."

"I'm not."

Pam said, "But you've sent all your fishing stuff on! Why aren't you going?"

"Why—er—I've decided to go to Frank Dunn's lodge instead."

So, Here's Murder Story with New Twist

By VIVIAN BROWN

(Wide World News Service)

There's something about a murder! Designed by Ruth and Walter Dorwin Teague it would have to be streamlined with a new twist.

Primarily, Walter Teague is an industrial designer who adds to your comfort with the hundred and one little modern effects that give eye-appeal to anything from your cookstove to your camera. Mild mannered, soft-spoken, having no resemblance to accepted conceptions of a mystery story writer, Teague and his charming wife nevertheless have collaborated in writing a successful Whodunit, "You Can't Ignore Murder."

Unlike most books which righteously attest to being "not relevant to persons living or dead" the Teagues are delighted to tell you all of their characters are real. Except the murdered man. They don't claim him. And when they finally do away with him, you feel distinctly relieved.

Their 200-acre farm at Hunterdon, N. J., is the scene of all the action. There in the midst of green pastures, bubbling brook and selected live-stock, they decided, on dull week end, to "murder a man by fiction," making most of their friends parties to the "fearful deed." So, don't be surprised to find yourself a character if you've ever been their weekend guest there.

Should you and your husband decide to collaborate on a murder mystery be sure you are "sympatico," advise the Teagues. They are just that. They see each other's viewpoint without mirrors.

The versatile Mrs. Teague, who manages the farm during the week includes in her sundry duties making all her own slip covers and knitting her husband's socks. Even in the "murdered man's" bedroom her handiwork shows in a lovely pair of drapes and bedspread. Defense work isn't neglected either, for she knits for the Red Cross. As her husband jots down their mutual thoughts and reads back sentences she listens intently and makes suggestions as she automatically "turns a heel" to knit one, purr two. She types the manuscript in any spare time during the week while Mr. Teague commutes to his New York office.

Weekends are devoted to writing, friends being instructed not to call before four o'clock. Thus, working uninterrupted they have approximately 12 hours every week for creative literature. Even with this limited time they managed their last book in 10 months.

Now they are working on a second book together, feeling that one good crime deserves another.

"Somewhere in Cornwall, England," evacuate children are running an hotel. The youngsters are all under 15.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — Gandhi, the Hindoo's religious fanatical leader in India, is more of a worry to the United Nations than Herr Hitler. They hate Adolf but they understand him. They rate him as wicked enough to class as a curiosity. Still, his peculiarities are of a sort that they're able to analyze and deal with appropriately.

Gandhi's eccentricity is of a type all by itself. He isn't exactly hateful. It would be almost better if he were. A hateful guy can be obliterated from this world's standpoint and dispatched to hades to round out the spiritual remainder of his career. It's a difficult treatment, though, to prescribe for a chap whose offense is that he's too darned virtuous.

The English may have some comprehension of Gandhi-ism. They have had considerable experience with his Hindoo type, but it's as new to this country as infinity.

Yet, that Indian situation is of tremendous importance to the United States.

It has its bearings (vital, too) upon all our activities in the Far East—versus Japan and in the interests of China and Australia and, quite likely, of Russia presently.

There's no end of guessing on the subject in Washington, but guessing is all it amounts to; no conclusions being reached.

China's Supply Line
It's been discussed with China's capital of Chungking, incidentally. For military supplies the Chinese are mightily dependent on us and these supplies have to reach them via India. Now suppose the Japs, breaking in there from the north, effectively sever this communications line? It'd raise Cain with the Chinese, and, because they're our allies, it'll raise Cain with us also.

Russia'll be sidetracked likewise, for it'll be a development right at the Soviet's rear door.

And naturally it'll be a vicious jab at Britain, another of our associates.

To be sure, such a program must involve various risks on Japan's part.

It will distract the Jap's attention from Siberia, as well as from our own transpacific assaults on 'em. It will spread 'em out like sixty.

And what will the Indians say? Please note that I mention the "Indians"—all of 'em.

We know in advance what Gandhi's Hindoos will say. Their policy's one of purely passive resistance—against Japan and everybody else. Gandhi thinks it's a system that'll win. I have my personal doubts about it, but maybe it won't be as passive as Gandhi suggests. His followers have got to be in operation against the English now and a good bit of shooting accompanies it, reports indicate.

Gandhi, it's to be borne in mind, is pro-independence. He's no more pro-Japanese than he's pro-British. He's for resistance against all-comers, only it's of the passive kind. Well, his passive definition of it is pretty embarrassing (including a bit of bloodshed) to the British. Maybe that same definition will apply to the Japs, if they try to butt in.

Not All Pacifists
Besides, not all Indians are pacifistic Hindoos. Several millions of 'em are Mohammedans and various additional super-belligerent breeds. They're in a minority in comparison with the Hindoos, but actually they're numerous—some of the best scrappers Britain has got.

Between these avowed fighters and the pacifists who aren't genuinely pacifistic and real pacifism's possibilities (Gandhi's demonstrated that it can be made a perfect wartime pest), it may be a mean area for the Japs to horn into.

Washington diplomacy is discussing the possibilities of a "negotiated settlement" in India.

It promises to be a heck of a job, especially considering our 100 percent ignorance of everything in India.

We could negotiate with Esquimaux or Hottentots as intelligently as with the Afghanistan and Mount Everest vicinities—the northern Hindoo neighbors.

Gandhi is a character, though. I've heard him referred to as a Messiah.

That was quite awhile back. Today—Oh, my!

It'll be interesting to read about him in a century later's history.

Or several centuries! We've had those lapses hither-

Missionary Society and World Service Guild Have Joint Meeting Wednesday

The Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church resumed its monthly meetings, Wednesday, after a vacation during the month of August, when it met for a combined meeting with the World Service Guild.

Mrs. A. B. Murray, president of the mission group, presided over the meeting, which opened with a piano number by Mrs. B. F. Davis, pianist.

Mrs. Murray read a very lovely poem, "God of the Open Air" by Henry Van Dyke, and then spoke of the death of Mrs. J. Fuller Jefferson, which brings such deep sorrow to the home of Mrs. O. D. Farquhar, a member of the society. Mrs. Farquhar was to have presented the program for the afternoon.

Miss May Duffee, the very efficient secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, and also a communication from the Board of National Missions, New York, giving the name of parties to whom missionary boxes were to be sent.

Mrs. W. B. Hershey, the treasurer, told how the quarterly apportionment had been sent, and she gave her well-accepted report. Mrs. A. F. Hopkins gave a very lovely offertory prayer, coming straight from her worshipful heart.

Mrs. Murray stated that she and Mrs. Musser had attended the Presbyterian meeting in Columbus, and gave some of the highlights of the meeting and announced that the district meeting would be held in South Salem, Sept. 25. The meeting will begin at 10 A. M. and a covered dish luncheon will be served. Members were urged to attend as a very interesting program is planned for the entire day. Mrs. Harry Sprenger and Mrs. Perce Harlow were appointed as delegates.

The president told of the receiving of a letter from Mrs. Myron Terry, Presbyterian missionary in China, and well known here, telling that she and her family were well and were located somewhere in Western China, and that her husband is still distributing Christian literature.

The devotional service and program was in charge of Mrs. C. S. Kelly, who read the 23rd Psalm, and offered a prayer. She then called upon Miss Emma Jackson to read the name of missionaries in the Year Book of Prayer.

Due to the change in the program, Mrs. C. L. Musser read an interesting article "Women and Missions" written by Elma R. Smith, a Navajo Indian teacher. This gave a clear and true conception of the life of the Indians today.

A radio skit was given under the direction of Mrs. S. A. Dewey, title "Foundation Builders", a story of the founders of our country from the time that Columbus first landed here, to the present time. This embraces the Spaniards, Indians, Orientals, Mexicans and Negroes. It will be interesting to know that the first negro came to this country with Columbus. Those taking part in this part of the program were Mrs. John Steele, Mrs. Frank Jackson and Mrs. Dewey.

Very delightful refreshments were served in the dining room where many cases of lovely fall flowers were used in decorations. Forty-five members and guests were present for this very enjoyable meeting.

Child Study Club Assembles for 2nd Fall Meet

Mrs. Kathryn Reno graciously opened her home on Elm Street to the ladies of the Child Study Club on Wednesday evening, with Mrs. O. M. Montgomery, the assisting hostess.

Twelve ladies were present for the very delightful meeting, which is the second of the fall calendar.

Mrs. Charles Reinke, the president, conducted the lengthy business session, including proceeds of rummage sale. Mrs. Paul Van Vorhis was elected vice-president.

Mrs. Robert McDonald gave a complete outline of this year's program.

Mrs. Howard Foster, program chairman, in the absence of Mrs. Arch Newbrey, opened with a poem, "Home," by Edgar A. Guest.

An interesting paper on "Home Management," was presented by Mrs. Montgomery, in which she stated that every child deserves a happy home, emphasizing that friendship, books and music are more essential than material things. A happy home shows its generous heart in refraining from critical attitude and fault finding, and included a generous attitude toward others. Tolerance in conversation in the home produces a happy atmosphere. A happy home offers more than a haven of comfort and understanding, and it can and should be a source of inspiration. Often it is the mother who brings the spirit of contentment and pleasure into the home. Happy homelife sends the child out, conditioned for success in his relation with other children and adults, and in turn it makes them able at some future day to establish happy homes of their own.

The program ended with the singing of "Home Sweet Home." Very tempting and appealing refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mrs. David S. Craig Is Complimented by Lovely Luncheon Party Thursday

An exceptionally beautiful party was given Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. J. M. Avann, of Evanston, Illinois, and Mrs. Henry Nicholas, of New York City, houseguests of Mrs. David S. Craig, Sr., complimented their hostess with a luncheon at the Devins Party Home.

It was an affair of distinct pleasures, with the hospitalities very charming hostesses, who are favorites among their close friends in this city.

A one o'clock luncheon of exceptionally delicious viands, was served at the dining table and two small tables, comfortably arranged in the large and adjoining rooms. The tables were pictures of pronounced beauty, with their watergardens of colorful combinations of fall blooms; Handpainted placecards of floral designs marked each cover, and on each were short and clever verses, which were read during the luncheon hour and caused much merriment. At the guest of honor's place, laid a perfectly gorgeous orchid, made in a delicate corsage. The combining of the very appealing luncheon and the pleasures of the hostesses, made it one of long remembrance.

The handsome Craig home was opened for the aftermath of the luncheon hour, to which the guests were taken for an afternoon of conversation and reminiscing. Brilliant dahlias, huge in size, were in profusion throughout the very lovely and spacious rooms, and the atmosphere of so perfect a setting added to the afternoon's pleasures.

The guests included Miss Nel Nelson, of Miami, Florida, and houseguest of Miss Edith Gardner, Miss Gardner, Mrs. Grant Coffman, Mrs. Joseph Harper, Mrs. George Fabb, Mrs. Maude Harlow Coffman, Mrs. Calvin Holmes, Mrs. Walter Craig, Mrs. George Cheney, Mrs. Allie Card, Miss Elizabeth Shoop, Mrs. Dan McLean, Miss Bess Cleveland, and Mrs. Oattie Morrow.

Other guests included Mrs. McKimley Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Carroll Halliday, Mrs. Hazel Smathers and Mrs. Charles Reinke.

Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Woodmansee returned Wednesday evening from a three weeks stay at Hiawatha Sportsman Club, at Engadine, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Farquhar, Mr. and Mrs. Ray O. Farquhar, and Mrs. Pearl Blackwelder, of Litchfield, Illinois, arrived Thursday morning, to be at the home of their brother, Mr. O. D. Farquhar, and Mrs. Farquhar, called by the death of their niece, Mrs. J. Fuller Jefferson.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Persinger were in Columbus, Wednesday, where Dr. Persinger attended to business.

Mrs. W. R. Hook motored her daughter, Eleanor, to Oxford, Thursday, where she will enter her second year in Miami University.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pennington were in Columbus on Wednesday.

SUICIDAL ASSAULTS OF JAPS ON YORKTOWN DESCRIBED BY WITNESS

the entire fleet was under way. Then there came a quick report: "Enemy planes."

Every gun was manned and the fleet was set for action.

"Enemy planes. Closing fast." The Yorktown had sufficient speed now to launch her remaining planes, and they were roaring off the flight deck.

"Enemy planes to port." There were two waves of them, torpedo planes coming low and dive bombers far above. It was a combined attack—the last, desperate assault of an already beaten enemy.

Our fighters were tearing into both groups. Few of the dive bombers ever got through, and no one was paying much attention to them anyway—we were watching the flashing torpedo planes, there appeared to be fifteen of them. Some fell away in flames, in spirals of smoke, in weird tumbles. Our fighters were taking a heavy toll.

Nine of the attackers kept right on coming. They apparently were aiming straight for the carrier. This cruiser stood between. As they came within range, the whole fleet's anti-aircraft opened up with such a din I don't remember hearing a thing after the first second. The attackers tried to dive beneath the barrage. More planes fell. Our own planes, too, were all mixed up in the dizzy aerial whirl.

The most distinct memory I have of the moment is that every gun on the Yorktown was blazing. She was putting up a scrap if any ship ever did.

of us to drop their deadly fish right at the carrier. I didn't see them hit.

At that moment, another enemy craft was slashing over our bow through a veritable wall of shell fire. His machine guns were pounding straight toward us. Across the bow, he went into a steep glide and let his silvered load pop into the water. He died within ten seconds in a mass of flames when the last plane to roar off the Yorktown cut him to pieces. The attack was over.

The sudden stillness was stifling. Our own fighters now were far away chasing the few remaining enemy planes. Every eye was on the Yorktown.

The ship was listing badly. Two planes clung like struggling beetles to her tilting deck. It was a sickening sight.

Men were sliding down ropes and dropping into the water. Destroyers were pulling alongside and picking them up. The signal went up—"I am abandoning ship."

Hundreds of survivors took to life boats and rafts and were taken to several nearby ships. Hundreds of bobbing heads found safety with the lifeboats tossed from all sides. Men were working fast, but it was an orderly abandonment—if any such drama could ever be so described.

An hour went by, two hours, hours that seemed like a bad dream. We watched silently from a few hundred yards away. All this time the enemy never came back—and we knew suddenly that the battle of Midway had been won. We hated to see abandonment finished, because we were afraid of what our own guns might be called on to do. It would have seemed like terrible cruelty to a living thing to have blasted that stricken ship.

Then we learned she was not to be sunk. With three bombs and probably three torpedoes, she still had a chance to live.

HEADQUARTERS ARRANGED FOR BY DEMOCRATS

Vigorous Campaign Planned
To Get Under Way
On October 1

Getting set for an early start and what was described as a "vigorous" campaign for the forthcoming November elections in Fayette County, the Democratic County Central Committee chairman, Frank Grubbs, said that party headquarters would be set up in the room formerly occupied by the American Budget Co. on North Fayette Street, about a half block off Court Street.

Grubbs said the room had been leased through the Max Dewes agency and that it would be opened October 1. No one has been named to take charge of the headquarters yet, the chairman declared and added that it was possible that volunteers would be assigned to certain periods and charged with the responsibility of handing out cards and other campaign literature and answering questions.

The headquarters also will be used for most of the executive committee meetings for mapping campaign strategy and directing the activities of the party workers, it was said.

The chairman revealed that the committee is planning on making a more intensive campaign through the rural sections of the county this year than in the past. To this end, four new members have been added recently to the executive committee and, it was pointed out significantly, that they are all farmers and all live outside of Washington C. H. in different sections of the county. By the appointment of Glen Davis, V. J. Kruse, Deane Powell and M. L. Yeoman, the chairman said, every section of the county will be represented on the committee. Other members of the executive committee are: R. M. Winegardner, chairman; Stanley Hagerty, vice chairman of the central committee; H. C. Ireland, secretary; E. A. Elies, treasurer; Don H. C. Bowen, William A. Boylan; J. J. Burris; Raymond Cabbage; Thomas F. Ducey, Howard Engle and Grubbs, chairman of the central committee.

While in Fayette County the Republican Central Committee is made up of elected representatives of only the wards and townships, the Democratic Central committee is made up of representatives of every one of the county's 44 voting precincts. Both party organization set-ups permit appointment of executive committee members not members of the central committee.

Grubbs, as chairman of the central committee and spokesman, said that the committee efforts would cover the campaign for both state and county tickets. He took an optimistic view of the county election and pointed out that the committees should be able to make its work more effective in view of the fact that there are only three Democratic candidates for county offices—Loren Hynes for representative, Roy Baughn for auditor and Warren Huchison for commissioner.

FARM LOAN GROUPS TO END CONFERENCE

Representatives from Here Attend Discussions

Fayette County representatives of national farm loan associations ended the second day of their conference at Wilmington Wednesday as plans were made to acquaint farm mortgage leaders in this section with latest methods of serving farmer-members of their cooperative credit organizations.

The Fayette County National Farm Loan Association delegates are Robert Armstrong, director, and W. R. Moats, secretary-treasurer.

Discussions during the two-day meeting were led by a group from the Federal Land Bank of Louisville—the 25-year-old unit of the Farm Credit Administration of Louisville that serves 433 national farm loan associations in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee. They included C. M. Wade, director of farm service; John M. Pickens, vice president, and R. R. Peters, regional manager.

One of the meeting's features included a discussion on the recently-introduced Future Payment Fund plan. Under this system of storing away cash reserves when farm income is up to meet future farm mortgage obligations, farmer-members of national farm loan associations receive the same interest on their Future Payment Funds as they pay on Federal Land Bank and Commissioner loans. Association members throughout the four-state area have placed close to $700,000 in their Future Payment Funds being held by the Federal Land Bank of Louisville.

George Eliot was the pen name of the English novelist, Mary Ann Evans.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Higher meat prices, and some shortages, are causing concern to women, but these are problems that can be solved economically and deliciously with the economical cuts—the tender, tasty meats that are overshadowed by the heavy demand for rib roasts and porterhouse steaks, lamb legs and lamb chops. They're just as appetizing and nutritious as the more popular cuts, and readily lend themselves to many new and interesting dishes. Ask our butchers about them—they're anxious to help you get more good meat for less money.

BEAUTIFUL SHRUBBERY AT SCHOOL BUILDINGS

A great many persons admire the beautiful shrubbery used in landscaping about the various school buildings in the city and most of the shrubbery, including the attractive evergreens, is showing a healthy growth under the careful attention given it. The shrubbery about the high school buildings and grounds is particularly attractive. Snakes have no eyelids and their eyes are constantly open.

ALL-PURPOSE BOOKS SEEN IN RATIONING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The office of price administration announced today it probably would give the nation a Christmas present—the first of four "all-purpose" ration books which Americans will be using for the duration of the war.

Providing a quick method of rationing any article or commodity as shortages develop, "war ration book No. 2" can be used for coupon rationing, such as is now employed in distributing sugar, or for point-system rationing, such as that used in England. Each book is adequate for rationing at least two major groups of commodities for a minimum of six months.

A total of 150,000,000 copies of the book will be printed for distribution shortly before Christmas OPA said.

KING OF BEASHTS, UNTIL, HIC, THAT BENDER

Sleeping off the worst jag ever seen at the Bronx zoo in New York City are these lions who went on a catnip spree as shameless as any alley feline. It all happened when the keepers decided to give the oldsters some catnip after it showed no effects on the cubs. Wonder how a lion's head feels the morning after? Hic!

The famous Qattara Depression, sunken wasteland of rock and mud which guards the Allied left flank on the Egyptian desert, is pictured in the distance above. The British soldier is on guard against any surprise Axis attempt to advance across the obstacle. Apparently unable to do so, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis forces have failed in their latest attempt to resume their drive toward the Suez canal. (Central Press Radiophoto)

"TO HORSE! TO HORSE!" NEW CRY OF COAST GUARD

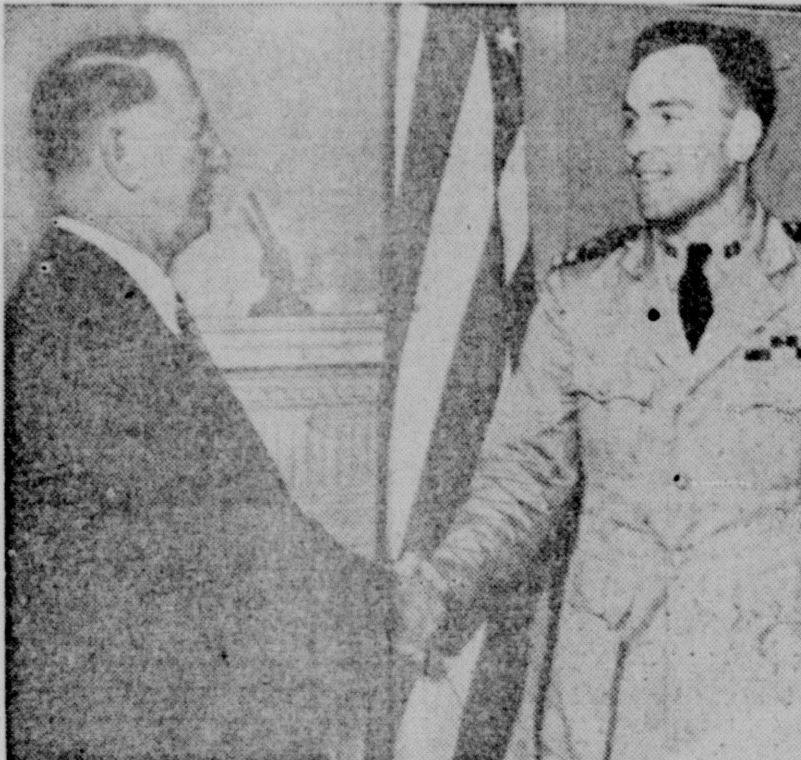

After all these years, something really new is being added to the lexicon of American sailors. These new words and phrases include such things as "Prepare to mount," "Mount," "Gallop," and "Horse"—not the sea variety either. While emphasis is being placed on mechanization in modern warfare, the United States Coast Guard for the first time in its history has organized "cavalry." horse patrols like the one pictured above that will guard the long stretches of lonely beach along the coasts.

Former Institution Turns in Old Guns for New

These obsolete guns and other military equipment, Smithsonian Institution relics of other wars, are going into the melting pot to make new guns for today's war. Dr. Charles G. Hedy Shares Worker's Lunch

During a lunch hour tour of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, glamorous Hedy Lamarr was offered a bite at a two-inch thick sandwich by ship-fitter Richard Spencer. She opened her mouth wide and, to the amazement of her audience, bit off a chunk that would have done justice to a riveter. Spencer then put the sandwich back in the paper and announced to his cheering co-workers, "I'm saving it for posterity." This is an official U. S. Navy photo. (Central Press)

"MISS MALICIOUS"—SHE'S HEADACHE TO THE AXIS

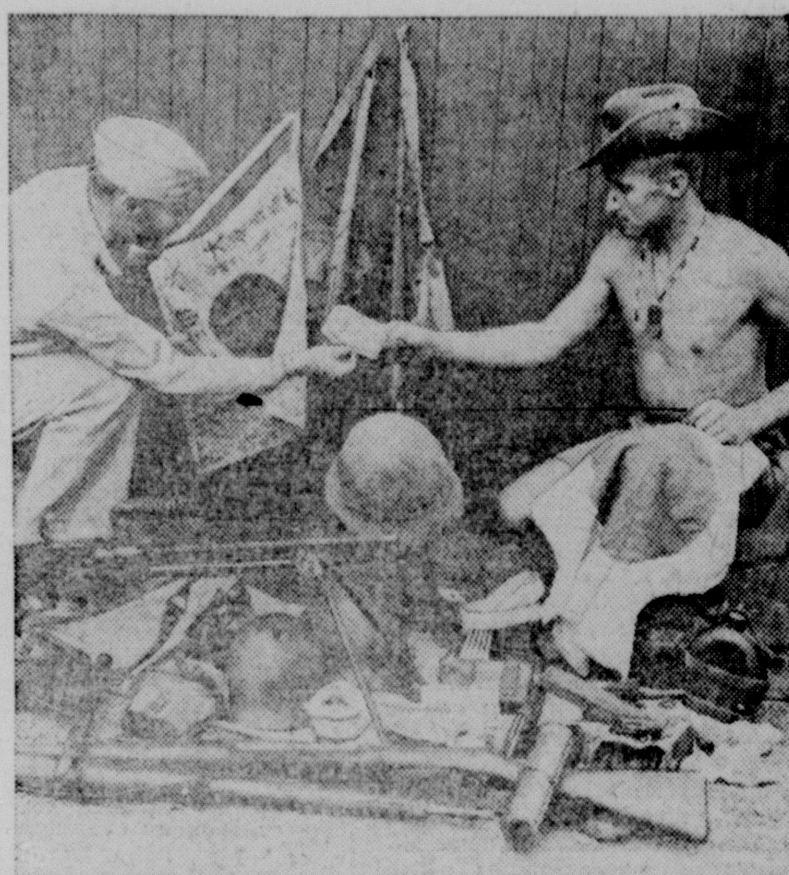

Under supervision of two United States Air Force officers, Australian mechanics put an American B-24 bomber into shape for her next flight against the enemy, somewhere in the Middle East. This bomber, named "Miss Malicious" by her crew, has already participated in 15 missions against the enemy as may be determined by the number of bombs painted beneath the name. One of these assignments was the bombing of the Italian fleet in the Mediterranean sea.

Lions' Foes for Friday Night Hit By Player Losses, too

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Instead of punishing those unruly spectators, maybe Brooklyn should give 'em a vote of thanks... The Dodgers hadn't shown as much fight in weeks as they did in that pre-game brawl yesterday, and did you notice how they started hitting right afterward... If they can only stay mad now, they may still beat out the Cards. Dixie Walker only got credit for four hits, but that wasn't a bunt he hung on that fan's jaw... Looks as if the Phils are the real beneficiaries of the close race. They drew 26,874 for the Cards series and will cut in on five games at Ebbets Field, including a Sunday doubleheader, as well as two home games against Brooklyn... ordinarily at this stage they'd have about 300 fans rattling around in the park.

Sensible Solution

When Johnny Stojack, star back at Wells High in Steubenville, O., was charged with accepting pay for playing sandlot baseball during the summer, H. R. Townsend, head of the Ohio State Athletic Conference ruled that Stojack could regain his eligibility by paying back any money he received for ball playing... He decided that Johnny had compromised himself innocently and that the steel company on whose team he played didn't know it was getting a grid star into trouble.

Today's Guest Star

Jimmie Murphy, Canton (Ill.) Daily Ledger: "So Leo Durocher is going to join the Navy! If the Dodgers fail to win the National League pennant, he'd better ask to be assigned to submarine service... or most any place other than the Brooklyn Navy Yard."

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Figuring on a brisk demand for World Series tickets if they win the National League Pennant, the Cardinals have established a two-to-the-customer limit for reserved seats. Mail applications for grandstand seats will be accepted beginning today, but none will be made for more than two blocks of tickets. As usual, tickets will be sold only in blocks of three, covering the three games to be played here. All box seats already have been sold to holders of season boxes.

Need Not Embarrass
Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

OPENING GAME OF SEASON AT GARDNER PARK

Portsmouth East Squad Not As Large as Normal; Most Schools in Same Boat

The Washington C. H. High School Blue Lions' foes, of which there are nine this year, are also having somewhat of a struggle to get out large squads for football this year, reports have shown.

The Portsmouth East team, having been said to be one of the toughest teams in Southern Ohio, has only 28 boys out for the sport while Washington C. H. has 22. Of the three greater Portsmouth schools, East has been the hardest hit. Five of its best players have been lost this year, one to the Navy, two to discontinuance of school work, one to scholastic difficulties and another moving to Greenfield. (The Lions are expected to come against this player, Art Shonkwiler, when they meet Greenfield here, October 9.) Seven of their players were also lost through graduation.

When the Tartans come to Washington C. H. Friday night missing from their 28 man squad will be these five boys, also their co-captain, Chuck Abbott, who is lost to the casualty list. Abbott, who was depended on by the head coach, John Fugit and the backfield mentor, Larry Peterson, to do the quarterbacking and signal calling, will be unable to play because of high blood pressure blamed upon a brain concussion received last fall.

Both teams are said to be evenly matched, comparing last season's record.

Chilliochee Next

The Lions will take the road for the second and third games of the season, first going to Chilliochee to meet the Cavaliers and then to Wilmington where they will battle the Hurricanes.

The Cavaliers, under the direction of their new coach, David B. Query, are picking their team from 41 candidates out for football. They lost 13 lettermen last year but have eight left for the team this year. One of their better players, Art Jones, joined the Navy a few weeks ago. The Cavaliers won only two games last season but are out for bigger game this year.

Then The Hurricane

Wilmington, like most of the other schools the Lions meet has a new coach this year. Roy D. McKinley is their new head coach and George Houck, their assistant coach. The Hurricanes have 12 lettermen back from last year but this doesn't mean much as all of the players who completed the season were awarded a letter. They have about 40 boys out for practice each night and will meet Xenia Central and Dayton Oakwood before the Lions go through their paces at Thorne Field in Wilmington two weeks from Friday night.

Greenfield Is Fourth

Washington C. H.'s fourth game of the season, with Greenfield here on Friday, October 9, will find Greenfield's Tigers a weaker team than last year because of the loss of Don Grate, their star athlete. They also have a new coach, Forest Creason. Creason is being assisted by John Griesheimer and Carl Sitterle. The Tigers have 27 boys out for practice at the McClain Field and they expect a few more who played on their team last year to come out after they finish up their summer jobs. The Lions will be in tip-top shape for the Greenfield game here three weeks from Friday night.

Indians At Hillsboro

Hillsboro, the Lions' fifth opponent, will play on their own field in Hillsboro on the night of October 16. The Indians have their new coach and are having daily practices. They have only five games scheduled this year and expect to win four out of the five, it has been said. Their new coach, Don L. Nelson, an Ohio University graduate, says they have a fair team and their big problem is replacements.

New Foe For Lions

Lions Brush Up on Tactics For Opener Friday Night

"It takes brains as well as physical strength to make a football team," Coach Jerry Kissell informed his Blue Lion squad at a "skull practice" Wednesday evening after school. This session was held to refresh the minds of the Blue Lions on tactics to be used in the encounter with the Portsmouth East Tartans Friday night.

Coach Kissell introduced the boys to the new faculty manager, A. F. McCann, who replaced J. M. York who resigned a few weeks ago to accept a teaching position in the Greenfield schools.

After being sent through mental drill and given helpful pointers by the coaches, the boys were sent to the high school locker rooms where they were given their numbered suits for the games. New pants, jerseys and shoes were furnished by the athletic department and these things were handed out.

The regular scrimmage Wednesday night was halted for a few minutes during the hard rain but the Lions resumed their play shortly after. During the backfield maneuvering and serviceable line charging.

The Blue Lion squad has been reduced to 22 members with three of their linemen, Donald Merz, Mac Whitfield and Leo Barger, on the casualty list. All three of the boys have similar leg injuries but expect to see service on the gridiron within the next week or two.

A number of fans have turned out to watch the new Blue Lion team perform under the watchful eyes of Coach Kissell and his assistant, George Miraben.

SOFTBALL SEASON COMES TO END; GRANGERS WIN INDUSTRIAL TITLE

The softball season came to an end in Washington C. H. Wednesday night between show-ers on a wet field and before a fair-sized gathering of the faithful.

By and large, it had been a successful season. To this play the players and fans and the YM-YWCA agreed. The two leagues, the Industrial and Church loops, were formed for the primary purpose of providing entertainment for everyone. And, the figures show they did just that, although of course, the backers of the program kept promoting and encouraging the people to take a greater advantage of the opportunity for evening recreation.

The Davis Wonders took another game from the Elliott's Specials Wednesday night after they had played four and one half innings. The rain finally stopped the game. The Wonders had already won the required two out of three games but the boys on the teams wanted to play again so the game Wednesday night was arranged.

Grangers Win Title

In the second game of the evening, which started at 9 P. M. after the field had drained somewhat, the Fayette Grange took the Industrial League championship from Light's Dairy by tacking a broken field running, good ing two out of the three game big game at Gardner Field. The Fairmont team started practice only a few days ago and the boys are expected to give a good account of themselves this year. They have ten games scheduled. The team was drilled for two weeks during the spring and won two practice games from Osborn at that time.

The Lions have three other games after this game with Fairmont. The one after the Fairmont game with Grandview is on Thursday night, October 29, because of a Teachers' Institute in Columbus on Friday and no school. Bexley is to come here on November 6, seven weeks from Friday night and the last game of the season will be here with Circleville on November 13.

Chance of Dodgers To Beat out Cards Slim, Figures Show

By SID FEDER

Ferdinand the Figger Filbert popped out of his hole today, right smack into the National League lawn party, and threw such a scare into the folks in Brooklyn they all but leaped over the garden wall.

Ferdinand the Filbert, in case you've forgotten him, is the little guy with an adding machine for a head, and a percentage table for a heart, and when he starts counting over you—well, pal, it may not be deadly, but it's no vitamin tablet.

And the way Ferdie has it figured out right now, what with the St. Louis Cardinals too the Cardinals should even lose four of their remaining nine games, the Dodgers would have to take nine of 11 to win. Or, the Cards can even go under the .500 mark—say win four and lose five—and in that case, the Gowanus Gallants would have to grab eight and lose only three. And if St. Loo should fall completely apart and drop six out of nine, Durocher's Darlings still would need seven of 11.

As both outfits went back to work today, here's the way the layout lined up:

Cardinals	W	L	GB	GP
Cardinals	98	47	9
Dodgers	95	48	2	11

However, the Dodgers are still better, than a hundred-to-one shot. Certainly, the manner in which they came back yesterday proved that. Dolph Camilli connected for two homers and two singles and knocked five runs and every one in the lineup connected at least one hit to back up Whit Wyatt's steady eowing.

Meanwhile, the Cards combed Jim Tobin for only nine hits, but they put five of them together for a winning four-run rally in the sixth. Ernie White didn't need much to work on, and for a guy who's been waiting lately about a sore arm, the Southpaw looked about as injured as Whirlaway.

The pitching job of the day, however, was turned in by Marv Breuer in twirling the New York Yankees to a 5-1 win over the Detroit Tigers. For seven innings he had a no-hitter and he wound up by giving up only two.

Paul Derringer tossed a four-hitter that gave the Cincinnati Reds a 3-1 decision over the Giants.

The Chicago Cubs climbed over the Pirates into the National League's fifth place by splitting a twin bill with the Phillies, losing the first 3-1 to Johnny Podajny and taking the nightcap 4-1 behind Hiram Bithorn.

"WE'VE CARRIED 75 MILLION" WARTIME TRAVELERS —since Pearl Harbor—

Let This Typical Greyhound Bus
Answer From Experience Your Questions About Travel Today

* Have you really carried that many people?
"Well, personally I've carried close to 38,000 passengers in the last nine months—but all of us Greyhound buses together have served more people than ever before . . . over 75 million travelers."

Just who is traveling today?
"A large share of my passengers are people connected with the war effort—soldiers and sailors, selectees, reservists, war workers, business men and women, farmers, nurses, for instance."

Is your job different now?
"Yes, in a sense. I only operate on the most vital routes today. Once I was a Limited, but such service has been eliminated—along with many extra sections and all duplicated service."

Does a bus save essential war materials?
"I don't want to boast, but I'm using only a fraction as much rubber and fuel per person, per mile, as private cars do—and I'm bettering my old records every day."

When's the best time to travel?
"I can answer that easily—on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, or Thursdays, avoiding the more crowded week-ends. It's also well to skip holidays and other rush periods whenever possible."

How else can travelers help?
"By accepting occasional inconveniences with a smile! It helps, too, if you cut down on the amount of baggage you take—and if you get tickets and information in advance."

PROGRAM PLANNED FOR PLANT WORKERS

Discussion Set at Meeting of Draft Boards

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—(P)—Ohio draft and employment officials today mapped a program for training war plant workers to take over the jobs of men called to the armed services.

Blackout Preparations Pressed Here

PLANS ARE LAID IN UPTOWN AREA AS FIRST STEP

Group of 35 Businessmen Discusses Situation with Civilian Council

As a result of a meeting of Washington C. H. businessmen Wednesday night, called by the Fayette County Council of Civilian Defense, first steps were taken toward preparation for a complete blackout of the business district and other stores, service stations and offices over the city, whenever a warning is sounded for such action.

This group of 35 assembled for this meeting represented stores, offices and other buildings which have inside lights of some character showing through most of the night, without outside cut-off switch connections.

Other business and manufacturing groups representing varied lines of business, which will be affected by blackout orders in some way, are being called for subsequent meetings.

It is expected that the city may be ordered at any time to stage one or more complete blackout rehearsals by an alarm issued by the State Council of Civilian Defense. Several of these already have been tried in Ohio cities with unsatisfactory results in many cases and the State Council is demanding that the cities of Ohio take this whole matter much more seriously as it is never known how soon a real air raid alarm may be sounded and lack of preparation may prove very disastrous in such an event.

The business people gathered at this first group meeting showed a very cooperative spirit when Col. Rell G. Allen, head of the emergency committee of the Fayette County Defense Council, explained the necessity and urgency for immediate action in complying with state and national orders.

In those places where night lights usually show and there is no way for an air raid warden to cut them off without breaking in a door or a window, it was agreed that immediate steps would be taken to have cut-off outside switches installed which would permit such lights being turned off. If ordinary snap switches are deemed satisfactory by the store or office owner, they may be installed, but if a special key switch is required to avoid lights being played with by youngsters or pranksters, uniform switches will be required, all of which may be turned off by the same key, to avoid confusion, if air raid wardens find it necessary to cut off the lights.

All businessmen are asked to report to the city manager's office when these switches are installed as police officers have been ordered to check on all these cases and report failures to comply. A city ordinance passed some time ago at the direction of the State Council of Civilian Defense, makes it possible to enforce this compliance where store or office owners refuse to cooperate.

GRACE CHURCH WOMEN ATTEND ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. E. F. Andre Delivers Interesting Address At Session

A large number of women of Grace Methodist Church, attended the annual meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service, Wednesday night, and heard Mrs. E. F. Andre, wife of District Supt. Dr. E. F. Andre, who is also conference corresponding secretary and vice-president of the Society in the Wilmington district, give an address of outstanding interest, on the general theme of "Go Ye."

Mrs. Mabel Blessing, president of the Grace Church organization presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker. Miss Marian Christopher was at the organ for the evening, and at the opening of the meeting, Mrs. Paul Fitzwater, who has a lovely soprano voice, sang, "My Task."

Mrs. Andre's address was full of inspirational ideas and thoughts, and left the large number of women resolved to make the coming year better in the work than the past year. Mrs. Andre explained the emergency gift being sought to make up the shortage in last year's budget, which would mean a reduction of 10 percent in the work being carried on by the Women's Society of Christian Service, if the deficit were not met.

She said that 25 cents per member—there being 1,285,000 members during the past year—would meet the demand to pay the more than $300,000 sought.

One of the interesting points brought out in her address, was the fact that less than 10 percent of the Methodist missionaries have been brought home as result of the war, and that demands upon the remaining missionaries are greater than ever.

"The Missionary work must go on, and we must follow the bidding of Christ of old when he told his disciples 'go ye and teach all nations,'" she said.

She spoke of the Japanese effort to create a race issue among the Negroes, and of the work that is being done among the Negroes of the south, and the need of still greater work on the part of the home missionary department.

How missionaries brought home are doing work in the temperance camps for Japanese in this country, was mentioned, as well as the great work being carried forward in free China, India, Africa, South America and various other parts of the world, regardless of the war, was explained.

She said that many persons had a mistaken idea of what missionary work meant, and that it was more than merely saving souls, including education, evangelism, social service work and medical attention.

Of the 1,285,000 members of the Women's Society of Christian Service, she said that only 27 persons are receiving compensation and that only 7 percent of all money collected is used for overhead expenses.

Mrs. Andre stressed the society's motto, "Know Him—and Make Him Known."

"Love always finds a way and we will find a way to carry on our work and 'Make Him Known,'" she said.

At the conclusion of the address Mrs. Blessing checked the attendance of the 16 groups, the women of which had been seated together and found Mrs. William Kitchen, with 90 percent present, held first place; Mrs. A. W. Rumman's group was second with 65 percent and Mrs. O. W. Woodyard third, with 58 percent.

Mrs. Blessing gave to each leader having the three highest percentages of members present, a comfort she had made, to start the year's work.
